Five days National Online Faculty Development Program on

Writing Architecture

A Critical conscious understanding of using architectural writings in research papers, articles and in exploring innovative allied interdisciplinary fields of Architecture

5th to 9th June 2023 - 11.00am to 2.15pm

Objectives

The multi-disciplinary profession of Architecture has bound allied fields of art & architecture in its academic curriculum. While the faculties strive to enhance the academic learnings of students through intense & innovative teaching methodologies and initiatives, a gap was realized in this journey. The teachings and learnings are not documented or archived, they remain in the personal individual schedules of faculties and thus remain unknown. The main objective of this FDP is to understand how writing architecture can help in building up the archives library of institutions; how this tool of writing be beneficial in documenting innovations at all subject levels, help in researching advanced knowledge in innovations happening globally and create awareness amongst fraternity. The FDP intends to convey the nuances of research paper writing skills, article writing, exploring innovations in allied fields and teaching methodologies in architecture. The participants will be guided through the process of conducting research and writing their papers, but they will be expected to develop their own perspectives
